

Everything I now know about creating discussion questions and writing assignments, I owe to Phil Bildner, and I thank him for these new skills.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

Sometimes people learn to appreciate each other's way of looking at things through a shared experience. By the end of the story, in what way has Maude become more like Sallie? In what way does Sallie come to understand Maude better? Why do you think this is true?

Sallie tells us what her goal is, but what do you think is Maude's goal throughout the story?
